

Thinking of...

a Career Change? Re-training? Personal Development?

This course gives candidates with no previous electrical experience the competence required to carry out domestic installations.

PTT Part P Preparation Course

4 modules – 17 days of training over a 4 week period

The PTT Part P Preparation Course is designed to help those who are seeking employment in the electrical industry but are unable to commit to a long term college training course.

The aim of the course is to train candidates to the level of competence required to become a Part P registered installer.

We provide high quality training; teaching students not only the technical skills but explaining the principles on which the techniques are based. Our students benefit from our small class sizes and patient and knowledgeable trained staff and leave us satisfied and keen to begin a career in electrical installations.

(see our testimonials page on the website).

The PTT Part P Preparation Course comprises four modules: PTT Installer 1, PTT Installer 2, City & Guilds 2382-12 and City & Guilds 2392 (further information for these courses can be found on the individual Course Data Sheets) which, if successfully completed, enables candidates to begin a career in the electrical industry as a domestic electrician.

We have a large fully equipped workshop to support students during practical instruction.

Duration: 17 days

Cost: £1,975+VAT [£2,370]

Fully inclusive of City & Guilds 2382-12 and 2392 examination registration fees and buffet lunch each day.
